

WHO AM I?

Many forms. Many realities. One consciousness.

THE CONCEPT

A boy is having a philosophical conversation with an unseen presence.

He believes he is alive. He believes he knows who he is.

But he is not one thing.

He is a child. An adult. An old man. An alien. A god.

And every time he changes, something else changes with him — his surroundings, his memories, even his consciousness.

THE REVEAL

Slowly, he realizes the terrifying possibility:

He isn't transforming.

He is being rewritten.

He may be nothing more than a generated image / video — a construct whose identity exists only because someone else created it.

THE QUESTION

If everything about you can be rewritten... what is truly yours?
